K. U. OFFICIALS HERE THIS WEEK

On Tour of Inspection—Big Power Plant at Pineville Opened Monday

Louisville and Chicago officials of the Kentucky Utilities and allied companies were in Middlesboro Tuesday on their tour of this district in the interest of public relations. While at Pineville Tuesday afternoon they had an opportunity to see the big power plant in operation which started Monday.

W. S. Vivian of Chicago, representing the public relations department of the Middlewest Utilities company and A. E. Scott and George Hutchins of Louisville, representing respectively the public relations and the safety departments of the Kentucky Utilities company, were the visitors.

They spoke at the meeting of the K. U. employes at the ice plant Tuesday morning, the theme of their talk being the necessity of rendering satisfactory service to patrons. During the afternoon they went to Pineville where they were guests of the Kiwanis club last night.

The new plant on the Cumberland river which was started nearly a year ago began operation Monday, M. J. Moss, pioneer Pineville resident, opening the valves which started the machinery. The plant represents an investment of approximately $400,000.

High power lines will run from the plant to Harlan and Bell county coal fields, while another line will go up to central Kentucky. The power consumed in the plant alone now is equal to that used in the entire Harlan coal field, according to Supt. R. M. Watt, who has had charge of the work here.

The plant will work in co-operation with the big plant at Dix river. It will generate 18,000 horsepower at 13,000 volts. This power in turn will be transformed into 66,000 volts and sent over high power lines to the other parts of the state and to Dix river. The plant will consume about 17,500 tons of coal a year when running at full capacity and will use in the condensers approximately 25,200,000 gallons of water a day.

Seven brick houses for employes have been erected on the place and roads and bridges are being built. The grounds consist of about 100 acres of land along Cumberland river.

RADIO IMPROVES MUSICAL TASTE

Works Wonders—is Refining Jazz—Says Professor

Associated Press

MADISON, Wis., May 1.—Radio is playing a leading role in the musical world, according to Prof. P. W. Dykema of the University of Wisconsin school of music. Prof. Dykema declares there is a tendency on the part of the general public to demand better types of music and quickened enthusiasm for musical harmony. He attributes much of this change to radio. "Radio has made its way into every little town and hamlet in the country and into thousands of homes," Prof. terest in this modern discovery the public is coming to appreciate better music because of the varied programs broadcast by radio stations. Every station has its radio numbers. Musical programs broadcast generally are selected with a view to giving the public several different types of musical selections. This has led the public to appreciate and want greater variety of music."

Radio is also influencing a change in so-called jazz music, which Prof Dykema declares shows interesting modern influences. "Largely through the influence of radio, jazz music has become more refined, complex and harmonious," he said. "Jazz is changing with the change in musical demands of the public. There is no need for a substitute for jazz music, because it is losing the barbarous, shrill characteristics which it first possessed."

HEBRIDEANS MAKE HOMES IN CANADA

Bad Weather Has Ruined Crops in Islands—No Funds

Associated Press

GLASGOW, May 1.—Three hundred more Hebrideans have left their native primitive islands to settle in the provinces of western Canada. Like the several shiploads which left the Islands during the last three years, the newest contingent will settle near Red Deer, Alberta.

It was only after much effort that this party could be formed for the crofters are loath to leave their native islands, where their forefathers have dwelt for several centuries. After arrangements had been completed for the departure, more than 50 of the prospective emigrants refused to carry out their decision and returned to their thatch huts.

When the immigrants reach Alberta they will find new cottages awaiting them. They will be allotted farms, if they wish to farm for themselves, or will be given farm employment.

Bad weather has ruined the crops on the islands for the last two years, reducing the inhabitants to a pitiful state. What food and clothing they have had has been given by the Scottish government, but the funds from this source are rapidly being exhausted. The population of the Outer Hebrides is about 45,000, of which the government hopes to move about a third to enable the remainder to live.

TAXES WILL BE FRENCH ELECTION ISSUE

Presidency Involved in General Election Frame

PRICES ARE HIGHER

Discontented Voters Will Shy Their Castor at Poincare Government

Associated Press

PARIS, May 1.—The presidency of the republic, as well as the life of the present government, is involved in the French general election, according to the leaders of the Radical-Socialist coalition.

A few weeks ago it appeared the only issue would be Poincare and his policies. The intervention of President Millerand, however, to prevent the repeal of the electoral reform law with a threat to resign his office if the law was not left intact, will, in the judgment of the opposition, make it impossible for him to remain in office if the government majority is overthrown in the election.

Apart from these personal elements the issues of the campaign are not so clear cut as they promised to be. Poincare himself has contributed to the confusion by abandoning the majority that sustained him in the occupation of the Ruhr and in the adoption of the bills for the balancing of the budget.

In his new cabinet there are several members who opposed both these policies, and the premier has declared that the majority to which he promised official support in the elections has become a minority. These developments it is thought, now will enable the opposition to concentrate their efforts on the exploitation of the premier's unpopularity. "General Discontent will be the chief asset of the opposition forces," is how one political leader put it, adding that the government majority would be "led by General Apprehension." On the one hand are the people, disgruntled because of the heavy taxation and high cost of living and on the other all those who regard high taxation and prices as the inevitable consequently of Germany's refusal to execute the treaty of Versailles, who believe that the menace from the east is the greatest danger to France, and that the economic problem and the question of security are linked together in the policy of France respecting Germany. They will say to the voter that if Poincare's policies are not continued, if a weaker government succeeds the present one, Germany will not only persist in her refusal to pay, but will be encouraged to go on with her preparations for another conflict.

The high prices and heavy tax argument, it is expected, will take largely in the industrial centers, but will be less effective in the rural districts that are always inclined toward conservatism and where the high cost of living is understood from a different angle than in the towns. Farmers are pretty well off on account of high prices, but they represent only about 30 per cent of the voters.

The issues in 1919 were the collection of reparations from Germany and the restoration of the devastated regions. The "sacred union" of parties established during the war and continued in the support of those issues, brought the "National Block" into being. Partisan politics has killed the "sacred union" and hope deferred has weakened the reparations issue. The struggle practically goes back to the prewar basis with the extreme liberal parties questioning the republicanism of every other party or faction and using the scarecrow of "the man on horseback" which Poincare, singularly enough, made a live issue by his demand for full powers in the matter of economics. "No dictatorship" will, in consequence, be one of the rallying cries of the opposition, if it isn't the principal and most potent one.

BROTHERS LOSE LIVES IN CLINCH

Charles and Dewey Walker Drown When Horses Stumble in River

MAYNARDVILLE, Tenn., May 1.—Charlie and Dewey Walker, brothers, were drowned in the Clinch river near Needham's ford, Monday evening, when on their way to a fishing camp. They were riding horses in company with a brother-in-law, Pryor Beeler, formerly of Knoxville, when their horses stumbled in the river, which is high, and the riders were thrown into the current and in spite of efforts to breast the stream, were carried swiftly down the river.

Beeler was a little distance behind, and seeing the fate of the two in front, he turned back and sought to intercept the unfortunate men, but was made unable to reach the men in the river, who were soon whirled out of sight. Searching parties were organized, and the river is being dragged as closely as the condition of the stream will permit.

Dewey Walker was about 25 years old and leaves a widow and one child. Charlie Walker was about 29 years old and leaves a widow, father, stepmother and several brothers and sisters. The ford is about six miles from their homes, in Union county.

SCHOOL SERVES KIWANIS CLUB LUNCH TODAY

Delightful Occasion in Charge of Supt. Bradner

ORCHESTRA PLAYS

Ashland Pastor Holding Revival at the Christian Church Is the Speaker of the Day

One of the most enjoyable luncheons ever served to the Kiwanis club was one today held in the new high school and served by the high school home economics class and their teachers, Miss Mary Skeen. About fifty Kiwanians were there.

The room was attractively decorated in lilacs and green and the food was beautifully prepared and served. Music was furnished by the splendid high school orchestra, directed b yMiss Lillian Seay, throughout the luncheon. A very enjoyable feature, too, was a number of the high school male quartet.

Supt. J. W. Bradner was chairman of the meeting today. He introduced the musicians and the home economics girls and told of their work. He gave a short review, too, of the progress that had been made in the schools and declared that greater progress was forthcoming. He announced a program and exhibition at the junior high school tomorrow, inviting them to it. He also enlisted the financial aid of the Kiwanians in sending the track men to the state meet at Lexington.

Mr. Bradner introduced as his speaker of the day Dr. D. W. Scott of Ashland who is holding a revival service at the Christian church here. Dr. Scott is a Kiwanian from Ashland and he spoke briefly about the Kiwanis ideals, urging that their building be of ideals, not only of material things. "It is the business of the Kiwanis club to translate into the language of the common people the Kiwanis ideals," he declared.

Announcement was made to the club of the inter-city Kiwanis meeting to be held in Middlesboro Thursday, May 15. The business meeting will be in the afternoon and a dinner in the nature of a ladies' night, at night. District Governor A. P. Ballou will be here for this occasion.

PRECHRISTIAN RELICS IN GRAVES

Excavations at Stratford Bring to Light Sixth Century Interments

LONDON, May 1.—The discovery of a number of skeletons with numerous funeral relics of pre-Christian date near Stratford-on-Avon in a sixth century cemetery, is regarded by English archaeologists as one of the most important finds ever made in England.

The german of the collection consists of a magnificent umbo, or boss, of a warrior's shield, which was found with other implements of warfare buried with a body. The shield boss which is pronounced to be unique is of iron, beautifully decorated with plates of cast bronze with gold attachments and ornamented with gold on the apex and around the rim.

During the course of the excavations 214 interments were found, some 40 of them having been cremated and the ashes buried in earthenware urns of beautiful designs.

WICKED CITIES LIE UNDER THE RED SEA

Biblical Lore Confirmed by Relics of the Bronze Age

By Associated Press.

ST. LOUIS, May 1.—Evidence of the existence of a Canaanite civilization of the early bronze age, dating about the twentieth century B. C., has been found by the Xenia expedition in a tour of the Dead Sea region of Palestine, Dr. Melvin G. Kyle, head of the party, said in a letter received here.

Dr. Kyle, who is president of Xenia Seminary here, declared his explorations also had tended to confirm the judgment of earlier investigators that the two cities of Sodom and Gomorrah, which, according to Biblical accounts were destroyed by fire and brimstone, are buried beneath the Dead Sea beyond the power of men to discover them.

Pottery found in the graves opened by Arab treasure hunters in the region, Dr. Kyle's letter said, shows conclusively the existence of the early Canaanite civilization. He characterized it as a "pre-Moabite civilization," pointing out that "Lot was the father of Moab."

"This is a necessary first link in the evidence we desire," the letter continued, "for the Bible represents just such a civilization as being here in the days of Sodom and Gomorrah. Moreover, there follows just here one of those expressive silences in Bible history.

"The destruction of the Cities of the Plain put out that civilization as suddenly and complete as one snuffs out a candle. Never again is any mention made or hint given or implied of a civilization in this plain after the Lord destroyed Solom and Gromorrah. This is exactly what our researchers have revealed. Thus, what seemed only negative evidence becomes a positive evidence on the subject. The next civilization that appears is Byzantine, which comes more than 2,000 years later."

Although suggestions have been made that divers be sent down into the Dead Sea to recover something from the two cities beneath its surface, Dr. Kyle scouts the idea, declaring the rushing waters of small rivers have brought down alluvial deposits that have been filling the the bottom of the sea, making the work of divers exceedingly difficult, if not impossible.

Dealers Pleased With Sales for First Four Months—Louisville Has Record Month

"We had the biggest business during April that we have ever had in a single month since we have been in business," declared the proprietor of a local lumber and builders' supply establishment this morning.

He stated that a number of small houses were being erected, particularly in suburbs, and repairs are being made on several residences and other properties. Contract has been closed by his firm this week for 35,000 barrels of cement for street improvement in Middlesboro. This item, however, was not considered in the regular business which, independently of the cement order, amounted to unusual proportions.

While the other retail lumber firms did not have such satisfactory figures to report today, they stated that business is fairly good and that prospects for the future are not bad.

LONG DISTANCE LINES TO HARLAN

Cumberland Will Extend Full Service to Harlan Coal Fields

It is announced by Guy Grover, manager of the Cumberland Telephone & Telegraph Co. that they will soon begin actual construction on a new toll route between Pineville and Harlan. In fact the contractors are now busy making delivery of poles. The engineers have completed the staking off of the line and it is expected that pole setting crews will begin the actual construction sometime in May.

For the past several years the Cumberland company has rented attachment space on the poles of the L. and N. R. R. Co. but the toll business has grown to such an extent that the telephone company finds it absolutely necessary to construct their own pole line between these points.

The very latest construction practices will be used in the building of the line, and it will closely follow the new state road which is on the opposite side of the river from the L. and N. tracks. Two crossarms will be provided between Pineville and Wallins and one crossarm between Wallins and Harlan. Besides the regular circuits to Pineville and Middlesboro it is understood that this line will carry a direct Harlan-Cincinnati circuit which will enable the telephone using public in Harlan county to receive improved service to Cincinnati and points in the north.

LOUISVILLE, May 1.—Louisville's biggest month in history in the construction industry is shown in preliminary estimates for April given out at the office of City Building Inspector David M. Bruckler.

Indications are that the total for the year will exceed $20,000,000 and there is a possibility that this city may pass Cincinnati. The latter city had $24,000,000 last year, and operations have fallen off there this spring, it is said. Last year Louisville's total was $17,000,000.

More than $4,100,000 was represented by construction work authorized during April, according to the estimate, this being the first time the total ever went beyond $4,000,000 in a single month.

For the first four months of the year Louisville's building total was approximately $9,000,000. The total for April, 1923, was only $1,560,385.

"Will young Casey share that bottle of Orange-Crush with three thirsty kids? Say—they haven't a chance! Try a bottle today, icy cold, and you'll know why!"

Here are six reasons why the real Orange-Crush is so utterly delicious: (1) The natural fruit oil of oranges; (2) The natural acid of citrus fruits (oranges, lemons and limes); (3) Orange juice; (4) Pure carbonated water; (5) U. S. Certified food color; (6) Pure cane sugar. That's all. Mm, what a drink!

About a Girl Who Couldn't Stop Loving

She loved life, she loved love, and then she loved the Boy. And her love was big enough to dare all, to suffer all, to embrace all, never faltering, never weakening.

A Billion Dollars Worth of Humanity

In a picture as big as a woman's love—the great, enduring love that will not weaken, will not doubt—a story that leaves you with a warm glow in your heart—uplifting, and bringing sweet ecstacies—a story that brings a smile to your face, tender memories, hopes, a far richer outlook.

The Love Story of a Boy and a Girl

Alert and stinging with the high pounding pulse of real life. A story as big as a woman's love—and her fall. It makes you forget—forget yourself and the world. You forget the theatre and the screen—forget the pictured players. You live the story.

COMMUNITY CHEST DRIVE COMING SOON

The first of May calls to mind, among other things, that a year has almost elapsed since the Community Chest drive last year and that, if the drive is to be repeated, work must begin on it in the next few months. As a matter of fact, the Community Chest officers are already busying themselves about the matter.

There is no question but that the Community Chest of last year was one of the most successful matters ever put over here. In the first place, the fund was enthusiastically oversubscribed considerably, providing amply for the budget estimate as well as additional relief work. In the second place, practically every dollar of the amount subscribed was paid because of the excellent plan worked out for financing it, that of predating checks for one to ten months ahead and so eliminating the necessity of going around to collect again.

There is as great a need for the Community Chest this year as last. In some funds the budget will be less, in others more. But after we have spent one year free from miscellaneous drives and with enough in our treasury to take care of all urgent needs, there is little liability of our falling down on the Community Chest again.

This is a matter in which every one in Middlesboro can and does have a part. We are known as a liberal people. Seldom if ever have we fallen down in a call for charity. So let us prepare to make this drive, providing the year's budget for our charities the most successful we have ever had.

CRIME AND YOUTH

Growing up in the city is a precarious business for our youth, according to police statistics of the United States. Police of several of the larger cities estimate that 75 per cent of the nation's crime is committed by young boys and that the hardest criminal conditions to correct by the customary court and prison methods of redemption are those created by erring youth.

The prevalence of crime among the juvenile element of the cities is attributed to improper home conditions, poverty, lack of restraint, many temptations and in many instances to the absence of understanding and sympathetic police and courts. Boys and girls will listen to reason and will respond to kind treatment but they rebel against mistreatment and undeserved punishemnt. There is a certain adult criminal class which is unredeemable, but there are few juvenile wrongdoers who cannot be salvaged.

Much of the so-called juvenile crime in the larger cities is known in the smaller towns and rural districts as harmless mischief. The city boys with an appetite for apples but without the pennies are hailed into the juvenile courts for petty larceny and on the first or second offense are committed to reformatories. In the country "snitching" apples, watermelons and corn is a part of a boy's education. He does it with no criminal intent but in the belief that it is his prerogative to raid the farmer's fields and that it is the farmer's prerogative to choose him for those fields.

Thousands of boys are being placed in reformatories in our cities every year for acts of petty thievery, although the public, the police and the courts realize that self-restraint and self-denial are not instinctive with adult mankind, much less with adolent youth. It is training, not punishment, which teaches youth the difference between right and wrong and the beneficial juvenile courts are those which lead boys and girls in the right direction and not into resentment and forced association with seasoned criminals.

It's a wrong road that has no turning.

Evangelist Urges More Interest in Children

Dr. D. W. Scott was in fine fettle last night in his sermon to church members. Taking for his background the first two chapters of Revelation he applied this scripture to the churches today.

In dealing with the riches of a church he declared that true riches were children. He said that the richest church in money in the U. S. had less than one hundred members and there wasn't a child in the whole congregation. He appealed to the church es at today to conserve its children and to have them in the preaching services.

Tomorrow night will be a sermon especially for children. Children are given a special invitation to come and every child is asked to bring a nail with him. "We want every variety of nails. Crooked ones, rusty ones, big ones and little ones, the greater the variety, the better we like them," is the way Dr. Scott makes the request.

Miss Warrenir gave a beautiful rendering of the old hymn "Throw Out the Life Line," last night. She has a wonderful voice and is one of the best song leaders and soloists of any woman in the Christian church in Kentucky. Her unusual spirituality makes her work effective.

Remove Old Gutters, Curbs on Cumberland

Old gutters and curbs are today being removed from the Cumberland avenue block between Fitzpatrick avenue and Eighteenth streets. New curbs and gutters will be made there and the block will be paved with concrete.

Work on the curbing and guttering on Eighteenth street between Cumberland and Lothbury avenues has been completed and the block is now ready for further improvements. It will also be made of concrete.

New Floor for Garage

A new floor is being made in the office and accessory room of the Catron garage, taking the place of the old floor which was old and worn. The work is practically finished now.

$2000 in Pockets of Shawanee Man Found Dead Sat.

Two thousand dollars, hidden in secret pockets, were found on the person of Charles W. Scott who was found dead at his home at Shawanee Saturday morning.

Three hundred dollars in bills were first found in a secret pocket on his clothing, then two other pockets were found containing larger amounts in currency. Seventeen hundred and seventy dollars were found in the three secret pockets and nearly three hundred in a bill fold which his relatives did not know he carried.

Mr. Scott who was seventy-three years old was a bachelor and spent much of his time alone. Friday night he complained of feeling unwell when he retired. Saturday morning he was found dead in his bed, apparently having died of heart trouble. Funeral services were conducted by the Rev. W. D. Farmer of Cumberland Gap at 10 o'clock Sunday morning. Interment was in the Scott cemetery.

Meeting In Big Tent

Persons who have been wondering what attraction is housed in the big tent on Fitzpatrick avenue will be surprised to learn that a meeting is in progress there each afternoon and night. R. R. Strunk, of Indiana, is conducting the services. He reports a large crowd last night, the second night of the revival.

Col. Ike Ginsburg Leases News Stand

Col. Ike Ginsburg has leased the building now occupied by the News Stand and announces he will take possession about June 1. The interest which he has acquired in the property practically amounts to a purchase and will doubtless result in his buying it outright.

While Col. Ginsburg has not made public his intentions as to the use of the building he will, in all probability, establish some kind of business there. E. A. Givens, proprietor of the News Stand, states that he has not yet formulated definite plans concerning his business.

Many Improvements For Country Club

At a meeting of the directors of the Middlesboro Country club yesterday it was decided to let contracts by competitive bidding for numerous improvements at the club. The work will begin soon and be completed before the state tournament meets here June 25.

New shingles will be placed on the outside of the building, lattice work will be done and the porches screened. A locker room will be built for convenience of women visitors, a hot the building and electric lines will be extended to the place for lighting and other purposes.

More Trash Cans to Be Put Out Next Week

The Sanitary Trash Can company which is doing a flourishing business announces that other cans are to be put in operation next week. By June, it will have twenty-five trash cans on the streets, according to present plans.

Local business men are cooperating liberally in the business of keeping the city clean by contributing advertising for the sides and top of the cans. The receptables are painted in an attractive manner in a number of colors and are now being largely used by the public. The city empties the receptacles when they are full.

The Money You Pay For Service Comes Back To Kentucky

THAT the Telephone Company is a larger spender than a collector is a fact known to very few.

The Bell System invests in new plant and spends for operating expenses, such as wages and taxes, and for supplies purchased in Kentucky during one year, as much money as it collects from the public for telephone service.

The millions of dollars we poured into Kentucky last year, no doubt, contributed to the commercial progress and prosperity of the state, while a large part of the money we collected for service found its way back to local communities where the telephone workers of Kentucky are home builders and citizens.

The money you pay is for service, the value of which it is difficult to estimate. Its efficiency and continued extension is due not only to the loyalty of faithful workers and the confidence of investors, but in a large measure to your cordial interest and co-operation.
